A horizontal sequence of six identical rectangular boxes, each defined by a thick blue border and no internal content. To the right of this sequence is a large, dark blue question mark.

The only constant in the world is change.

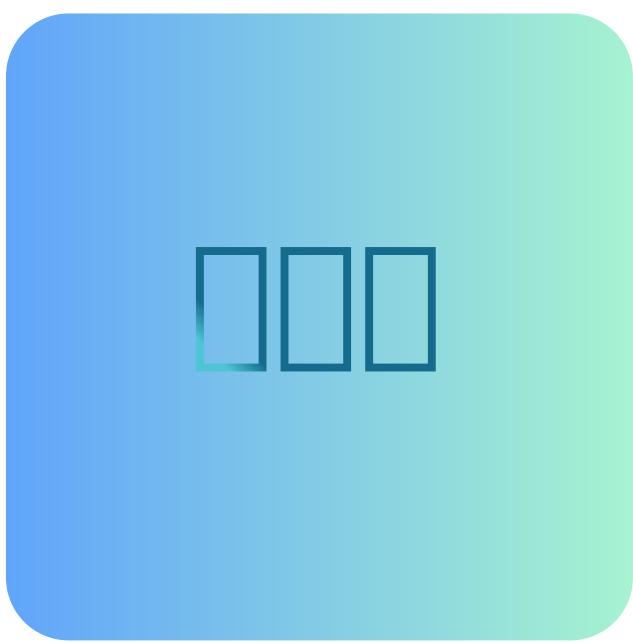

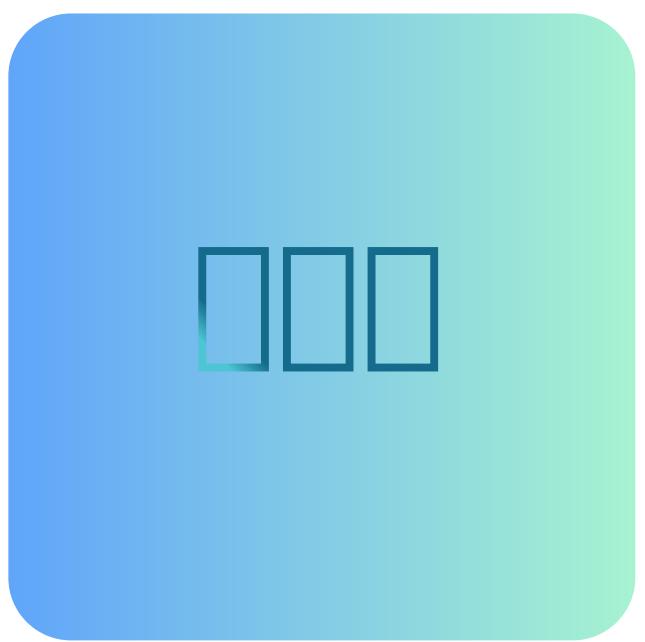

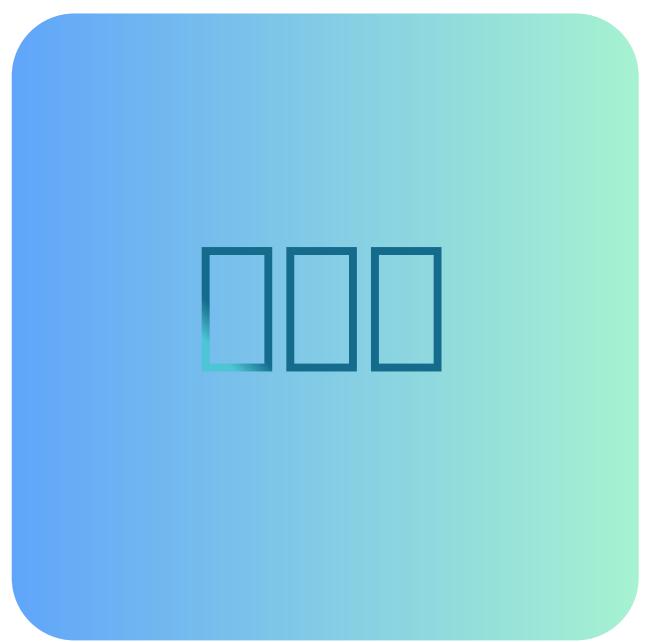

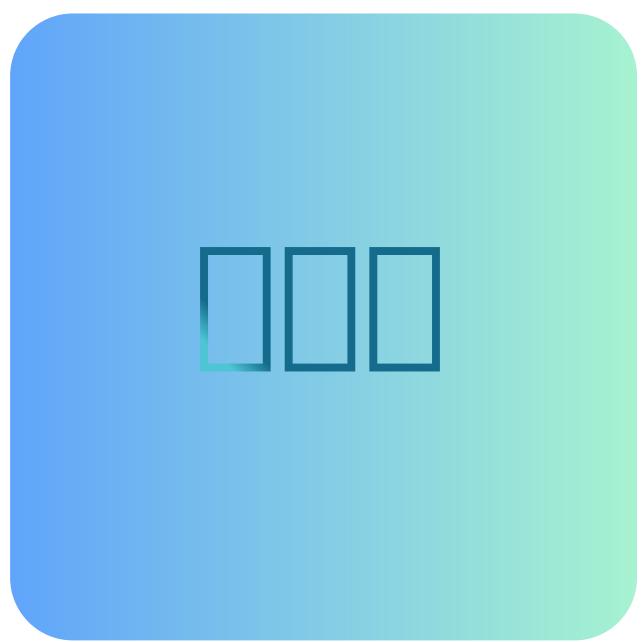

A horizontal sequence of 20 empty rectangular boxes, each with a black border, arranged side-by-side. This sequence is intended for drawing a timeline, with a vertical dashed line positioned between the 10th and 11th boxes.

A horizontal row of 20 empty rectangular boxes, likely for a survey or form.

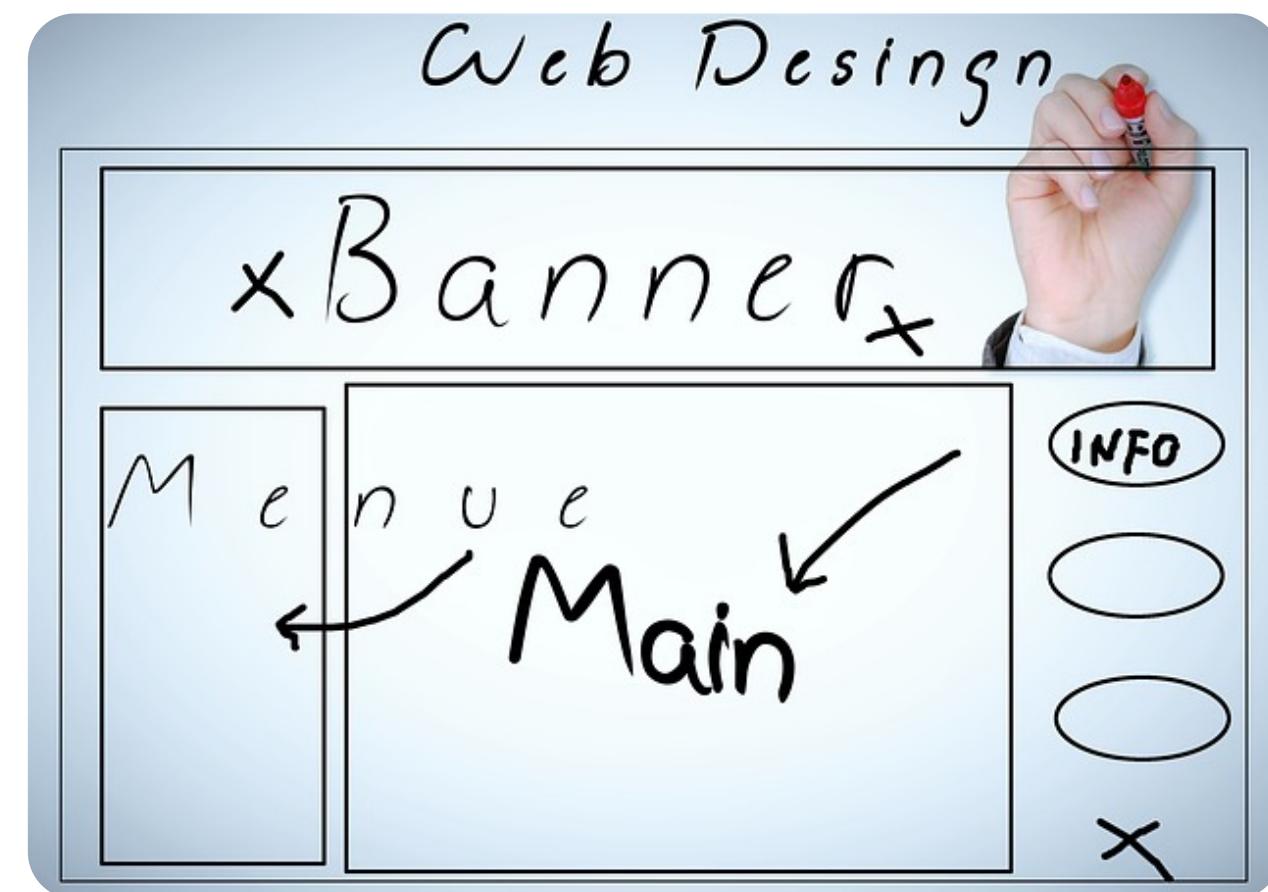

The screenshot shows two side-by-side web pages. On the left is the Node.js v16.5.0 documentation, specifically the 'Table of contents' page. It lists various modules and add-ons, with 'Modules: CommonJS modules' expanded to show sub-sections like 'Accessing the main module', 'Addenda: Package manager tips', and 'All together...'. On the right is the webpack v5.45.1 documentation under the '概念' (Concepts) section. It defines webpack as a module bundler that builds a dependency graph from entry points and outputs bundles. The '概念' page includes a sidebar with links to 'webpack v4.0.0' and 'webpack 配置' (Configuration). A callout box on the Node.js page points to the 'All together...' section of the Node.js documentation.
